

Neighbourhood policing - Guidance overview

Information, guidance and advice, based on evidence, on how to understand communities and build trust. And how to work with these communities, supported by private, public and voluntary sector partners.

First published 14 March 2024

These neighbourhood policing guidelines were originally published in October 2018. For each area of effective neighbourhood policing there are:

- guidelines for chief officers
- highlights on what is essential based on the evidence
- supporting practical materials for different roles in policing

This material provides frontline officers, staff and volunteers with information, practical advice and additional resources on how to put each of the guidelines into practice. The material is largely based on learning from a review of the research evidence on implementing neighbourhood policing. Frontline officers and staff were also involved in its development.
